02 · PROBLEM & SOLUTION

The Gap We're Closing

FiTEN has spent 40 years building one of the most connected Tamil entrepreneur networks — but that network lives in event halls, not online. When the conference ends, connections disappear.

THE PROBLEM

No Discoverability

A Tamil founder in New Jersey has no way to find a Tamil software agency in Chennai. The platform simply doesn't exist — Tamil businesses are invisible to each other across borders.

No Community Context

Google, LinkedIn, and Yelp carry no Tamil identity or cultural trust. For high-stakes B2B decisions — legal, financial, technology — community credibility is everything.

No B2B Signaling

There is no way to broadcast "I am looking for a partner, investor, or client" within the Tamil network. Business intent stays invisible and opportunities are missed.

THE SOLUTION

List in Minutes, Visible Globally

Any Tamil business submits once and appears in real time — searchable across cities, sectors, and continents, with no waiting.

Active B2B Signals

Businesses flag exactly what they need right now — Partner · Client · Investment · Hiring. Real intent, not just a static profile.

Community Trust Layer

FeTNA Sponsors, Women-Led businesses, Conference Speakers — curated identities backed by 40 years of FeTNA credibility that no algorithm can replicate.

Bilingual — English + Tamil

Full English and Tamil-script interface, built for the diaspora — not just translated, but designed for how Tamil professionals actually work.

A Network Already Built

No cold-start problem. No user acquisition cost. The community is already here — it just needs a digital backbone.

THE OPPORTUNITY

FeTNA has spent 40 years building one of the most trusted Tamil entrepreneur networks in North America — with 71 member Sangams, 3,000+ annual convention attendees, and 600K+ Tamil people across the US and Canada. That community exists. FiTEN Business Directory gives it a permanent, searchable digital home for the first time.
